

The Onboarding Run

client-onboarding · built in notion

Onboarding goes wrong in the gap between the signature and the first piece of work: nobody owns the checklist, and the record is missing the fields the work needs.

What it connects to: It starts where the deal closes and ends where delivery begins. Anything the intake does not capture gets chased by hand later.

1 of 3 SYSTEM

The intake checklist as a template, so every client starts the same way rather than from scratch.

📋 Stamped from the Job intake template. Every new row in this database starts with these steps, in this order.

Intake

☒ Intake call logged and scope captured

☒ Client record linked and contact verified

☒ Site visit booked, confirmation SMS sent

☐ Damage photos uploaded to the job folder

☐ Moisture and damage readings recorded

☐ Insurance claim number on file

☐ Quote drafted and sent

Handoff to crew

☐ Crew lead assigned and notified

☐ Access details confirmed — gate code, pets, parking

☐ Equipment list staged at the yard

2 of 3 THINKING

The properties behind one job record, which is where the checklist stops being a list and starts being data.
